

Dr. Alexine Profice

Director of Curriculum Design and Implementation

Dr. Alexine Profice received her Bachelor of Arts in English and her Master of Science degree in Secondary Education with an emphasis in English from Alcorn State University. She received her Doctor of Education degree in Educational/Organizational Leadership from Nova Southeastern University. Dr. Alexine has been in education since 2001 serving as a reading and English teacher, basketball coach, adjunct instructor, and curriculum coordinator in the states and in the UAE and as a senior educational consultant for CORE Learning LLC in the states.

As stated by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., “The function of education is to teach one to think intensively and to think critically. Intelligence plus character—that is the goal of true education.” Students deserve high quality, engaging, and innovative educational experiences that will teach them how to think intensively and critically, how to unlock their brilliance, and how to build their character. Every student was born with the ability to learn, and education is the profession that inspires, that drives, and that awakens that ability in students. By exposing students to the true essence of education and by teaching them how to become independent thinkers and learners, the process of obtaining a solid and meaningful education will be rewarding and life changing.
